

Senior Researcher (m/f/x) Public Banks & Development

Stellenanbieter: E3G - Third Generation Environmentalism gGmbH

Senior Researcher, Public Banks and Development

Berlin or London

E3G is looking for a Senior Researcher to join its Public Banks and Development team. The role will support the delivery of our work on political engagement with governments who are shareholders of Multilateral Development Banks (MDBs). This role specifically will work with MDB shareholders from the Global South, with a geographical focus on Africa, Southeast Asia and Latin America. The geographical focus might be narrowed down, depending on the candidate's profile.

This role will be based in either E3G's Berlin or London office and will contribute to delivering E3G's work on understanding and forming coalitions of Global South shareholders of MDBs, through a combination of political analysis and external engagement.

Background

E3G is an independent climate change think tank with a global outlook. We are world leading strategists on the political economy of climate change, dedicated to achieving a safe climate for all.

We work on the frontier of the climate landscape tackling the barriers and advancing the solutions to a safe climate. Our goal is to translate climate politics, economics and policies into action.

E3G is consistently ranked as one of the top ten most influential environmental think tanks in the world by the University of Pennsylvania's Global Go-To Think Tank Index.

E3G offers a dynamic and fast paced working environment that will value your insight, initiative and collaboration wherever you are in the organisation.

Key Responsibilities

- Monitor and analyse developments in Global South countries with focus on climate finance and develop a strategic approach to engage with these countries.
- Build coalitions of Global South countries as MDBs shareholders with the overall goal to understand bottlenecks of financial flows into these countries.
- Manage and grow relationships with external partners, including CSO, think tanks and National Development Banks in the Global South.
- Produce and project-manage internal and external communications, reports, briefings, research and analysis.

- Work collaboratively and flexibly across E3G's PBD to support objectives of colleagues in the other E3G offices.
- Provide administrative support where needed, including preparing and organising meetings and events and writing minutes.
- Some travel might be required but we are open to discussing this if this would otherwise become a barrier to your application.

Experience and Skills

Essential Experience:

- A high-quality degree or professional qualification in a relevant area (you do not need a master's degree).
- A strong background in international relations with at least three
- years of relevant experience, preferably with work experience in a Global South context.
- A strong understanding of developments in the Global South, with a focus on climate finance.
- Strong analytical skills and the ability to translate insights into actions.
- An ability to communicate clear, accessible research and to present ideas clearly and credibly with colleagues and key external stakeholders.
- Be a supportive, collaborative, and open colleague and team player.

Desirable Experience:

- Confidence engaging with external stakeholders including senior representatives from government, politics, business, and civil society.
- Experience with grant management, e.g. with the International Climate Initiative (IKI).
- Good time management, focus, and organisational skills.

What we offer

- A permanent, full-time position.
- Flexible, hybrid working and the option to compress hours.
- 25 days leave, plus additional leave between Christmas and New Year.
- An employer pension contribution plan.
- The annual salary in London is between £41,918 and £44,000, and in Berlin €45,990 and €47,500 depending on the candidate's professional experience and skills.
- Yearly process for remuneration review.
- A position within a thriving, ambitious team that works collaboratively and fosters learning, while creating opportunities for you to work independently.

E3G is unable to provide relocation assistance to candidates who would need to change locations in order to take up this position. E3G will require candidates to demonstrate that they have the right to live and work in Berlin or London.

How to apply

Please submit the following documents in English:

- A CV of no more than two pages.
- A cover letter of no more than one page outlining your motivation and the skills and experience you are bringing to the role as well as your earliest possible start date.

The deadline for applications is 31 July 2025.

Interviews are anticipated to take place in the week commencing 11 August 2025.

Whilst we very much appreciate the time you will have taken with your application, due to the level of response we receive we are not always able to reply to every candidate. If you have not heard from us with 2 weeks of the closing date, please assume you have been unsuccessful on this occasion.

E3G values diversity and welcomes applications from all suitably qualified candidates regardless of age, gender, race, disability, sexual orientation, religion or ethnic background. We aim to build an inclusive workforce that is reflective of the populations we support and actively seek applications from those who are marginalized and underrepresented. We are committed to providing reasonable accommodations to applicants with disabilities.
