Then don't wait any longer and apply for the varied and exciting position and become a federal volunteer or intern at the ProVeg Incubator!

ProVeg

ProVeg is a non-profit nutrition-focused organisation which aims to reduce global animal consumption by 50% by 2040. We are active in eight countries on four continents and are growing rapidly. We work with governments, private companies, public institutions, healthcare professionals, and the general public to accelerate and assist with the global transition to a more plant-based society and economy that is sustainable for people, animals, and our planet.

Wherever possible, our strategy is based on empirically sound findings. We strive to remain at the cutting edge of research and to adapt our strategic considerations and public relations work accordingly. We continually re-evaluate all our activities to ensure that we are using our resources optimally in order to achieve our goal.

ProVeg promotes a culture in which challenges become development opportunities through constructive feedback. Changing the global food system is a huge task and we are looking for team members with innovative ideas that show foresight and provide new perspectives. Creative thinking and critical problem-solving skills are essential to achieve our goals. We believe that an organization that creates space for diverse voices is a more effective organization.
